

Dora Wordsworth's 1828 Continental Journal has been published in full for the first time.

- Edited with an essay and commentary by art historian Cecilia Powell.
- Also contains an introductory essay by Pamela Woof, editor of the OUP editions of Dorothy Wordsworth's Grasmere and Alfoxden journals.
- Lavishly illustrated throughout.

ISBN: 978–1905256525

Format: hardback

Size: 270x203mm, 227 pages

Publication date: 13 April 2022

'Dora's vivid snapshots of travel still retain their clarity and charm. They will linger long in the minds of her modern readers.'

£20.00 plus postage & packing. Available from the Shop at Wordsworth Grasmere, by mail order (send an email to shop@wordsworth.org.uk or phone 015394 35544), or on Amazon.

Patrons & Friends making their purchase direct from the Wordsworth Trust get 25% off (£15.00 plus P&P).

All sales support the work of the Wordsworth Trust.

The Wordsworth Trust

A company limited by guarantee, registered in England and Wales, no. 3442086.

A registered charity, no. 1066184.

wordsworth

GRASMERE

I can't praise Canals, Castles and Catholics too highly. The Wordsworth Trust has established a tradition of publishing books that are both dense with information lucidly presented and beautiful examples of design and typography. In this first-ever presentation of Dora Wordsworth's Continental Journal of 1828 in full the Wordsworth Trust fully meets in own high standards.

This is one more fine example of the Wordsworth Trust fulfilling its mission to make available its remarkable holdings and simply to have given the text of Dora's lively and insightful journal would have been welcome. But this volume does much more than that. The essays by Pamela Woof and Cecilia Powell, and the latter's scholarly commentary, are major contributions to the biographical record of the Wordsworth circle. The first-hand, original research on display here is enormously impressive, as is the lightness of touch that makes it all so readable.

The essays and the journal text are beautifully illustrated. The whole is a triumph.

Stephen Gill

Professor Emeritus at Oxford University, Supernumerary Fellow at Lincoln College, Oxford, and author of William Wordsworth: A Life and Wordsworth's Revisitings.

Canals, Castles and Catholics: Dora Wordsworth's Continental Journal of 1828 has been generously supported by the W.W. Spooner Charitable Trust.